THE NEWS ABOUT TOWN

ITEMS OF INTEREST PICKED UP BY THE NEWS MAN.

Dana Wight of Gilead was in town to-day.

A. L. Young of Auburn was in town Tuesday.

Gilman Chapman was in Portland last Thursday.

Mrs. John Gould of Portland is visiting friends in Bethel.

Miss Fonti Manning called upon friends in Bethel Sunday.

R. S. Godwin of Rumford Falls was in our village Monday.

Marguerite Finney spent Sunday with relatives in town.

Miss Grace Chapman has been spending a few days in Portland.

J. C. Billings has a fine cottage in process of erection at Songo Pond.

A brother of Miss Stevens from Kent's Hill is working for B. W. Kimball.

Miss Edith Farwell of Gilead visited her aunt, Mrs. Alice Farwell, recently.

Orene Cole of Bryant Pond visited Mrs. F. P. Chandler and daughters, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Abbott are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son.

Jas. H. Barrows has bought the Marcus W. Chandler, house on Mechanic street.

Howard R. Carter is employed in the office of the Berlin Mills Co. at Farmington.

Charles Cross had a fine three-year-old colt seriously injured by barbed wire, this morning.

E. H. Young and Edw. King are coming out to-day with nice awnings over their show windows.

An extensive forest fire on Grover Mountain made a very pretty sight, last Friday and Saturday nights.

Miss Winona Bartlett who is teaching school at West Milan, N. H., has been spending a few days at home.

Mrs. Ed Arno returned last week from a visit to relatives and friends in Milan, Dummer and Gorham, N. H.

Don't forget the contest supper to be given by the defeated side of the W. R. C. at the Corps rooms this evening at 6:30.

The person who left a pair of gold-bowed glasses at Wiley's drug store may have the same by calling and proving property.

The W. C. T. U. met with Mrs. O. M. Mason Tuesday. Mrs. Fannie Bisbee, Mrs. Ella Packard and Mrs. Ella Jordan were chosen delegates to attend the Convention to meet in Norway, June 12.

Friday evening, from 8 to 10 o'clock, the Congregational society will tender their pastor and family a reception in Garland chapel. A most cordial invitation is extended to the pastors and people of the other societies to meet with them.

We are informed that a white robin has made its appearance in the neighboring town of Mason. The wings are brown, breast red, top of the head black, the balance of the body a pure white. With his mate he is building his nest in an apple tree near S. O. Grover's.

Are you one who has received sample copies of the NEWS? If so, we trust that you have enjoyed reading them. None will be sent after this week unless we have your advice to the contrary. Shall we not hear from you with $1.25? Send us this amount and we will date your paper July 1, 1903. Let us hear from you.

One of our merchants says in his ad this week, "Don't go out of town for your flour." This is good advice and would not be entirely lacking in its application to some other departments of business in town. Such an avalanche of trade adown the Grand Trunk is not in keeping with a thriving up-to-date town and when some of our good merchants shall have profited by the example of said flour dealer there will be a change in the complexion of affairs along this line.

M. E. Bartlett of East Bethel was in the village Saturday.

Mrs. G. R. Wiley returned from Portland last Wednesday evening.

E. C. Bowler took a short business trip to Boston and Providence last week.

C. W. Willey has charge of the erection of J. P. Skillings' birch mill in Sumner.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Fox are housekeeping in the Chandler house on Mason St.

Mrs. D. Ann Mills spent a portion of last week with her daughter, Mrs. A. M. Farwell.

The Oxford County Sunday School Association will be held at Mechanic Falls to-morrow.

Miss Duran and Miss Grace Duran of Cumberland are visiting their cousin, Miss Lucy Fox.

Miss Ethel Kendall who is teaching at Bryant Pond, visited relatives in town last Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Emma Robertson and daughter, Ida May, of Gorham, N. H., were visiting relatives in town last week.

Mr. Frank E. Needham who is suffering from cataracts on both eyes, is at the Eye and Ear Infirmary, Portland, for treatment.

Mrs. L. E. Leach who has been cooking at the hotel for several months, has been obliged to give up her position owing to ill health.

Miss Alice Frost, Miss Carrie Grey and Mr. Tom Mayberry of South Paris, visited at Mrs. Wm. Mason's the latter part of last week.

Leon V. Walker, G. A., '99, Bowdoin, '03, has accepted a position as tutor to Gov. Hill's son, and will spend the summer with his pupil in Colorado.

Miss Theo Greene who has been teaching in Milan, N. H., has returned to her home in Portland.

Miss Ryerson of West Paris will finish the school.

Ask Mr. Bisbee whether his advertisement on re-cleaned oats paid him anything or not, and he will tell you that during the two weeks that it appeared he sold 1200 bushels.

Dr. and Miss Johnson of Berlin who have many friends in Bethel, are travelling abroad and have recently visited Stratford-on-Avon. They will spend some time on the continent.

Robert B. Bisbee, Bowdoin, '03, came in second in the two-mile run at Intercollegiate Meet at Garcelon Field, Lewistown, last Thursday. The run was made in 11 minutes, 7.45 seconds.

Dr. Weeks of Portland, assisted by Dr. Sturdivant, performed an operation on Miss Minnie Godwin for chronic abscess of the axilla, last week. Several diseased lymphatic glands were removed and Miss Godwin is doing nicely. Her many friends hope for a speedy recovery.

W. S. Wight is away this week arranging for a series of concerts for Mr. Chapman, to be given the last of June and first of July, in New Hampshire and Maine, with some of the Portland Festival star singers. The date for Bethel will be July 1. This will be the best talent Bethel has ever heard.

A very handsome deer visited the village last Friday noon. It was first noticed entangled in a wire fence on the property of H. O. Andrews near the Congregational church. About eighty teachers, who were dining in the chapel, went to its assistance, but it escaped, ran across the campus at the Academy, and finally returned to the woods on the opposite side of Mill stream.

Saturday, May 24, Brown Corps is to meet at the Corps rooms to make a few wreaths for decorating the church for Memorial Sunday services. Wednesday, May 23, they are to meet again to make those for decorating the graves. It is hoped many will be present, as a large number of wreaths will be required. All the Corps ladies are requested to meet at Garland Memorial chapel Memorial Sunday, May 26, at 10:15 o'clock to form in line for entering the church when the Post arrives.

Gould's Academy Commencement Concert.

The graduating class has been particularly fortunate in selecting and securing talent for its concert this year. An effort has been made to procure some of the best attractions of the day, and it is no exaggeration to say that the concert will afford the people of this vicinity, who have long since evinced an appreciative liking for the best in the line of musical and dramatic entertainment, an evening of exceptional interest. The concert will be given at Odeon Hall, on Thursday evening, June 6, and the graduating class take pleasure in presenting the following artists:

The Mendelssohn Quartet of Portland, which has earned for itself an enviable reputation among the leading quartets, even in comparison with those of Boston, having in its members some of the best vocal talent of Portland. This attraction alone is sufficient to assure the success of the concert.—But there will be another feature, of charming contrast to this musical part of the evening; none other than the well-known and successful reader, Miss Agnes M. Safford. We believe that Bethel has never been accorded the privilege of hearing this gifted elocutionist, whose popularity and praises have been continually sounded wherever she has appeared. Hence, this will indeed furnish a rare opportunity, and all may pleasurably anticipate the first appearance here of this artist.

These attractions will round out an evening, which no one will care to miss. As a concert it has every assurance of being more than up to the high standard of former years; and the members of the graduating class would suggest to their friends and the public, that they keep the date for this concert in mind, that nothing may prevent them from availing themselves of this musical and dramatic "feast," at popular prices. There will be further particulars in next week's issue of the NEWS.

The following press notices speak for themselves of the merit of the artists above referred to:

The Mendelssohn Quartet of Portland afforded a most delightful evening of melody, in the Armory, Monday. The program, from the bright "Pinsuti Spring Song," which formed the opening number, to the "Loon Lullaby," which appropriately brought it to a close, was a full cluster of musical gems. All of the artists forming the quartet are also finished soloists, and the solo and duet numbers were equally enjoyable with those of the quartets.—Bath Times.

Miss Varney is acknowledged to be one of the finest sopranos in New England. Her voice is a high, pure soprano, of great flexibility and beauty, and her personal charm of face and manner combine to make her a great favorite everywhere. Wherever Miss Varney has been heard come reports of her success and compliments for her voice, her singing, her style, her artistic feeling, in fact, for all the qualities that go to make up a successful career on the concert stage.—Groveton, N. H., Sun.

Miss Martha F. B. Hawes, the contralto, has a remarkable voice of great range and purity. She sings with much soul and expression. Wherever she appears she wins her audience at once,—her personal charm and magnetism adding her glorious voice.—Groveton Sun.

Dr. Nickerson, Portland's best tenor, received an ovation for his singing of the difficult solo allotted to him. His voice is of high range and great power; his enunciation beautifully distinct, and his style free and pleasing. The best tenor we have heard for many a day.—Kennebec Journal.

Mr. Bowdoin has had for so young a man, rather a wide concert experience and has made trips through Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, receiving in almost all cases a very cordial welcome. At private musicals and entertainments he has always been in great demand, and his rich, deep voice, splendid control, and in the whole his thoroughly artistic work, has ever been appreciated by cultivated audiences.—Portland Telegram.

To Miss Safford the latching of Bangor is always out, and each visit only serves to increase her popularity and augment the appreciation of her talents as a reader of high quality.—Bangor Whig and Courier.

BUSINESS POINTERS.

Business Readers will be published in this column at eight cents per line, reckoning six words to the line.

The graduates will find a variety of dainty fans at Miss Burnham's.

A full line of fancy colored hosiery may be found on the counters at Miss Burnham's.

The Bethel Chorus will meet this evening at the home of Dr. Sturdivant. Important business will be brought up and a full attendance is desired. Prof. Chapman is expected to be present.

The Editor called on F. A. Leach and Ed Barker in Rhode Island, last week, and found them both well located and enjoying life. Mr. Leach is foreman of a large printing and publishing business and Mr. Barker is motorman on the Providence & Pawtuxet Valley electric road. He says he likes the business first rate, but if some of the suburban routes had no ends to their tracks he would not be suffered the opportunity of running "kerchuck" off the irons onto the lifeless sands of terra firma. But then, he isn't there now. He was pulled back by another car and is still doing business.

Memorial Services.

Members of Brown Post will meet at G. A. R. hall Sunday, May 25 at 10 a. m., to attend services of Memorial Sunday.

May 30, the Post will meet at 7:30 a. m.; teams will leave for East Bethel at 8 a. m., services at that place at 10 a. m.

Reassemble at 1:30 p. m.; services will be held in Odeon hall at 2 p. m.

Edward C. Sweet of Portland will speak at East Bethel in the forenoon and at Odeon hall at the afternoon services.

It is hoped that all the old soldiers will be present and in the ranks this year.

Universalist Association.

The Oxford Universalist Association will meet at the Universalist church in Bethel next Tuesday and Wednesday, May 27-28.

Mr. Littlefield's Safeguard.

The Hon. Charles E. Littlefield of Maine, one of the ablest and most independent, and we may add without offence, one of the most cocksure statesmen in Congress, is reported as follows on a subject of moral and intellectual interest:

"If it were not for the newspapers, the jobs which would go through Congress are terrible to contemplate. If there were no newspapers at all, I don't believe I would be willing to trust myself alone in the House of Representatives for fifteen minutes."

Let us believe that Mr. Littlefield is too conscientious a man, and too intelligent a critic of his own proceedings, to become dangerous as a job-promoter in the House even if the vigilant eyes of every American newspaper should be closed forever in blindness.

This, however, is a purely academic question. So long as Mr. Littlefield remains in public life he is likely to continue to enjoy, in common with his associates, the advantages of that enlightened supervision and moral restraint to which he so modestly acknowledges his indebtedness.—New York Sun.

To Introduce To You

The line of Plated Flat Ware, made by the celebrated firm of REED & BARTON, of Taunton, Mass., I have made some especially low prices on Knives, Forks and Spoons. I still carry the Rogers Brothers' goods which you all know, but if you want same thing even better than Rogers', let me show you the Reed & Barton line. This is not a new firm, as they started in business in 1824, and to-day you will see their silver in many of the largest hotels of the country. Call and see the goods whether you want to buy or not.

BLACK ROCK

By RALPH CONNOR

CHAPTER IV.
MRS. MAJOR'S STORY.

THE days that followed the Black Rock Christmas were anxious days and weary, but not for the brightest of my life would I change them now, for, as after the burning heat or rocking storm the dying day lies beautiful in the tender glow of the evening, so these days have lost their weariness and lie bathed in a misty glory. The years that bring us many ills and that pass so stormfully over us hear away with them the ugliness, the weariness, the pain, that are theirs, but the beauty, the sweetness, the rest, they leave untouched, for these are eternal. As the mountains, that near at hand stand jagged and seared, in the far distance repose in their soft robes of purple haze, so the rough present fades into the past, soft and sweet and beautiful. I have set myself to recall the pain and anxiety of those days and nights when we waited in fear for the turn of the fever, but I can only think of the patience and gentleness and courage of her who stood beside me, bearing more than half my burden. And, while I can see the face of Leslie Graeme, glistened or flushed, and hear his low moaning, or the broken words of his delirium, I think chiefly of the bright face bending over him and of the cool, firm, swift moving hands that soothed and smoothed and rested, and the voice, like the soft song of a bird in the twilight, that never failed to bring peace.

Mrs. Mavor and I were much together during those days. I made my home in Mr. Craig's shack, but most of my time was spent beside my friend. We did not see much of Craig, for he was heart deep with the miners, he was plans for the making of the league the following Thursday, and, though he shared our anxiety and was ever ready to relieve us, his thought and his talk had mostly to do with the league.

Mrs. Mavor's evenings were given to the miners, but her afternoons mostly to Graeme and to me, and then it was I saw another side of her character. We would sit in her little dining room, where the pictures on the walls, the quaint old silver and bits of curiously cut glass all spoke of other and different days, and thence we would roam the world of literature and art. Keenly sensitive to all the good and beautiful in these, she had her favorites among the masters, for whom she was ready to do battle, and when her argument, instinct with fancy and vivid imagination, failed she swept away all opposing opinion with the swift rush of her enthusiasm, so that, though I felt she was beaten, I was left without words to reply. Shakespeare and Tennyson and Burns she loved, but not Shelley or Byron or even Wordsworth. Browning she knew not and therefore could not rank him with her noblest three, but when I read to her "A Death in the Desert" and came to the noble words at the end of the tale,

"For all was as I say, and now the man lies as he once lay, breast to breast with God."

the light shone in her eyes, and she said: "Oh, that is good and great! I shall get much out of him. I had always feared he was impossible." And "Paracelsus," too, stirred her. But when I recited the thrilling fragment, "Prosper," on to that closing rapturous cry.

"Then a light, then thy breast—
Oh, thou soul of my soul, I shall clasp thee again,
And with God be the rest!"

the red color faded from her cheek, her breath came in a sob, and she rose quickly and passed out without a word. Ever after Browning was among her gods. But when we talked of music she, adoring Wagner, soared upon the wings of the mighty "Tannhauser," far above, into regions unknown, leaving me to walk soberly with Beethoven and Mendelssohn. Yet with all our free, frank talk there was all the while that in her gentle courtesy which kept me from venturing into any chamber of her life whose door she did not set freely open to me. So I vexed myself about her, and when Mr. Craig returned the next day from the Landing, where he had been for some days, my first questions were:

"Who is Mrs. Mavor? And how, in the name of all that is wonderful and unlikely, does she come to be here? And why does she stay?"

He would not answer then. Whether it was that his mind was full of the coming struggle or whether he shrank from the tale I know not. But that night when we sat together beside his fire, he told me the story while I smoked. He was worn with his long, hard drive and with the burden of his work, but as he went on with his tale, looking into the fire as he told it, he forgot all his present weariness and lived again the scenes he painted for me. This was his story:

"I remember well my first sight of her as she sprang from the front seat of the stage to the ground, hardly touching her husband's hand. She looked a mere girl. Let's see, five years ago—she couldn't have been a day over twenty-three. She looked barely twenty. Her swift glance swept over the group of miners at the hotel door and then rested on the mountains standing in all their autumn glory. 'I was proud of our mountains that evening,' Turning to her husband, she exclaimed:

"Oh, Lewis, are they not grand and lovely too?"

"Every miner lost his heart then and there, but all waited for Abe, the driver, to give his verdict before venturing an opinion. Abe said nothing until he had taken a preliminary drink, and then, calling all hands to fill up, he lifted his glass high and said solemnly: 'Boys, here's to her.'"

"Like a flash every glass was emptied, and Abe called out:

"Fill her up again, boys; my treat!" "He was evidently quite worked up. Then he began, with solemn emphasis: 'Boys, you hear me; she's a No. 1, triple X, the pure quill with a head on it; she's a—'

"And for the first time in his Black Rock history Abe was stuck for a word. Some one suggested 'angel.'"

"Angel," repeated Abe, with infinite contempt. 'Angel be blowed!' I paraphrase here. 'Angels ain't in the same month with her. I'd like to see any blanked angel swing my team around them curves without a shiver.'"

"Held the lines herself, Ahe?" asked a miner.

"That's what," said Ahe, and then he went off into a fusillade of scientific profanity expressive of his esteem for the girl who had swung his team round the curves, and the miners nodded to each other and winked their entire approval of Abe's performance, for this was his specialty.

"Very decent fellow, Abe, but his talk wouldn't print."

Here Craig paused, as if balancing Abe's virtues and vices.

"Well," I urged, "who is she?"

"Oh, yes," he said, recalling himself. "She is an Edinburgh young lady; met Lewis Mavor, a young Scotch-Englishman, in London, wealthy, good family and all that, but fast and going to pieces at home. His people, who own large shares in these mines here, as a last resort send him out here to reform. Curiously innocent ideas those old country people have of the reforming properties of this atmosphere. They send their young bloods here to reform—here in this devil's camp ground, where a man's lust is his only law and when, from sheer monotony, a man must betake himself to the only excitement of the place, that offered by the saloon. Good people in the east hold up holy hands of horror at these goddesses miners, but I tell you it's asking these boys a good deal to keep straight and clean in a place like this. I take my excitement in fighting the devil and doing my work generally, and that gives me enough, but these poor chaps, hard worked, homeless, with no break or change—God help them and me!" And his voice sank low.

"Well," I persisted, "did Mavor reform?"

"Reform? Not exactly. In six months he had broken through all restraint, and, mind you, not the miners' fault. Not a miner helped him down. It was a sight to make angels weep when Mrs. Mavor would come to the saloon door for her husband. Every miner would vaunt. They could not look upon her shame, and they would send Mavor forth in charge of Billy Breen, a queer little chap who had belonged to the Mavors in some way in the old country, and between them they would get him home. How she stood it puzzles me to this day, but she never made any sign, and her courage never failed. It was always a bright, brave, proud face she held up to the world, except in church. There it was different. I used to preach my sermons, I believe, mostly for her—but never so that she could suspect—as bravely and as cheerily as I could, and, as she listened, and especially as she sang—how she used to sing in those days!—there was no touch of pride in her face, though the courage never died out, but appeal, appeal! I could have cursed aloud the cause of her misery or wept for the pity of it. Before her baby was born he seemed to pull himself together, for he was quite mad about her, and from the day the baby came—talk about miracles!—from that day he never drank a drop. She gave the baby over to him, and the baby simply absorbed him.

"He was a new man. He could not drink whisky and kiss his baby. And the miners—it was really absurd if it were not so pathetic. It was the first baby in Black Rock, and they used to crowd Mavor's shop and peep into the room at the back of it—I forgot to tell you that when he lost his position as manager he opened a hardware shop, for his people chuckled him, and he was too proud to write home for money—just for a chance to be asked in to see the baby. I came upon Nixon standing at the back of the shop after he had seen the baby for the first time, sobbing hard, and to my question he replied:

"It's just like my own."

"You can't understand this, but to men who have lived so long in the mountains that they have forgotten what a baby looks like, who have had experience of humanity only in its roughest, foulest form, this little, sweet and clean, was like an angel fresh from heaven, the one link in all that bleak camp that bound them to what was purest and best in their past. 'And to see the mother and her baby handle the miners—oh, it was all beautiful beyond words! I shall never forget the shock I got one night when I found Old Ricketts nursing the baby. A drunken old beast he was, but there he was, sitting, sober enough, making extraordinary faces at the baby, who was grinning at his nose and whiskers and cooing in blissful delight. Poor Old Ricketts looked as if he had been caught stealing and, muttering something about having to go, gazed wildly round for some place in which to lay the baby, when in came the mother saying in her own sweet, frank way: 'Oh, Mr. Ricketts—she didn't find out till afterward his name was Shaw—would you mind keeping her just a little longer? I shall be back in a few minutes.' And Old Ricketts guessed he could wait.

"But in six months mother and baby between them transformed Old Ricketts into Mr. Shaw, fire boss of the mines, and then, in the evenings, when she would be singing her baby to sleep, the little shop would be full of miners, listening in dead silence to the baby songs and the English songs and the Scotch songs she poured forth without stint, for she sang more for them than for her baby. No wonder they adored her. She was so bright, so gay, that she brought light with her when she went into the camp, into the pits, for she went down to see the men work, or into a sick miner's shack, and many a man, lonely and sick for home or wife or baby or mother, found in that back room cheer and comfort and courage, and to many a poor broken wretch that room became, as one miner put it, 'the anteroom to heaven.'"

Mr. Craig paused, and I waited. Then he went on slowly:

"For a year and a half that was the happiest home in all the world till one day—"

He put his face in his hands and shuddered.

"I don't think I can ever forget the awful horror of that bright fall afternoon when Old Ricketts came breathless to me and gasped, 'Come, for the dear Lord's sake!' and I rushed after him. At the mouth of the shaft lay three men dead. One was Lewis Mavor. He had gone down to superintend the running of a new drift. The two men, half drunk with Slavin's whisky, set off a shot prematurely, to their own and Mavor's destruction. They were badly burned, but his face was untouched. A miner was sponging off the bloody froth oozing from his lips. The others were standing about waiting for me to speak, but I could find no word, for my heart was sick, thinking, as they were, of the young mother and her baby waiting at home. So I stood, looking stupidly from one to the other, trying to find some reason, coward that I was, why another should hear the news rather than I, and while we stood there, looking at one another in fear, there broke upon us the sound of a voice mounting high above the hired tops, singing:

"Will ye no' come back again?
Will ye no' come back again?
Better lo'ed ye canna be
Will ye no' come back again?"

"A strange terror seized us. Instinctively the men closed up in front of the body and stood in silence. Nearer and nearer came the clear, sweet voice, ringing like a silver bell up the steep:

"Sweet the lav'rock's note and lang,
Liltin' wildly up the glen,
But ay tae me he sings as sang,
Will ye no' come back again?"

"Before the verse was finished Old Ricketts had dropped on his knees, sobbing out brokenly, 'O God, O God, have pity, have pity, have pity!' and every man took off his hat. And still the voice came nearer, singing so brightly the refrain:

"Will ye no' come back again?"

"It became unbearable. Old Ricketts sprang suddenly to his feet and, gripping me by the arm, said piteously:

"Oh, go to her! For heaven's sake, go to her!"

"I next remember standing in her path and seeing her holding out her hands full of red lilies, crying out:

"Are they not lovely? Lewis is so fond of them!"

"With the promise of much finer ones I turned her down a path toward the river, talking I know not what folly till her great eyes grew grave, then anxious, and my tongue stammered and became silent. Then, laying her hand upon my arm, she said, with gentle sweetness:

"Tell me your trouble, Mr. Craig, and I knew my agony had come, and I burst out:

"Oh, if it were only mine!"

"She turned quite white, and, with her deep eyes—you've noticed her eyes—drawing the truth out of mine, she said:

"Is it mine, Mr. Craig, and my baby's?"

"I waited, thinking with what words to begin. She put one hand to her heart and with the other caught a little poplar tree that shivered under her grasp and said, with white lips, but even more gently:

"Tell me."

"I wondered at my voice being so steady as I said:

"Mrs. Mavor, God will help you and your baby. There has been an accident, and it is all over."

"She was a miner's wife, and there was no need for more. I could see the pattern of the sunlight falling through the trees upon the grass. I could hear the murmur of the river and the cry of the catbird in the bushes, but we seemed to be in a strange and unreal world. Suddenly she stretched out her hands to me and with a little moan said:

"Take me to him!"

"Sit down for a moment or two," I entreated.

"No, no; I am quite ready. See, she added quietly; I am quite strong."

"I set off by a short cut leading to her home, hoping the men would be there ahead of us; but, passing me, she walked swiftly through the trees, and

Mr. Joseph Clewley, of 47 Church street, bookkeeper for J. E. Knox & Co., Lynn, Mass., manufacturers of dies and cutting tools, says: "I used several prescriptions from physicians, trying to get relief from attacks of backache. The pain was in the region of the kidneys, and the medicine seemed to relieve me for the time being, but it always returned. If I took cold it was always worse, and at such times I was downright sick. I had a severe attack and used Doan's Kidney Pills. The first box relieved me a great deal. Continuing the treatment a short time longer I was entirely cured, and I have had no return of the complaint."

Housework the Most Healthful Sort of Work.

For years, and many of them, the housekeeper has had her own way, and no one has been able to contradict her. The monotony of housework has been her plaint and a large amount of undesired sympathy she has evoked by it. Probably if women had never taken up business careers they would have gone on to the end of time considering the person who looked after the details of a home and planned three meals a day as a martyr who was fairly weighted down by the awful monotony of her lot. There is one person who will never take much stock in that old cry, and that is the woman who has been in the steady grind of a business career. Doing the same thing day after day, that is not the exclusive privilege or bane of the housekeeper, not by any manner of means. In fact, when you come right down to the subject, there is no work in the world in which there is more variety than in general housework, whether one attends to the details herself or simply directs someone else in the doing. Furthermore, it is the most healthful sort of work. To be sure, it can be so done as to prove anything but a blessing physically. If one stoops toward it, so to speak, with contracted chest and drooping shoulders, it will only be a question of time when the head will droop and the shoulder blades stand out. Also, if one habitually does all the heavier work with one hand, the result will be a one-sided development.

Since almost all of the regular housework is of such a sort as to require forward motion of the arms, the thing to guard against is contraction of the chest. Sweeping and dusting become good exercise when proper attention is given to the position of the body. The sweeping not only starts the circulation and increases respiration, but it also gives some good arm and waist exercise. Bed making is good exercise when the windows are open to admit plenty of fresh air. A great deal of bending is necessary, but this alternates with straightening of the body. No one position is held for any length of time, side motions of the trunk and arms being necessary. There is free play for the chest, the lungs are filled with fresh air, and the general circulation is quickened in this brisk work. But, as in every other detail of housework, the clothing should be such as to give no pressure or undue weight. But the most lowly and despised detail of housework is after all the one that is most valuable from the standpoint of hygiene. The scrubbing and wiping up of floors are two movements in which the weight is taken entirely from the feet. In the position on the hands and knees gravity acts to the best advantage, and the shoulder movement is comparatively free. The mop, that labor-saving device, is from this point of view no improvement over the scrubbing brush.—New York Sun.

A Little Sermon on Economy.
Most books on practical ethics devote much space to inculcating economy. The spirit, if not the letter, of "Poor Richard's" maxims colors much of their instruction. But it is a fair question whether many of these exhortations to economy are based upon a thorough and candid study of what that virtue is.

For instance, the mere saving of money by the avoidance of expenditure is not necessarily economy. A house for example, demands a certain yearly outlay in the way of repairs, and if these are neglected for a term of years the sum needed to put it in proper condition will probably be much greater than the aggregate of the small amounts needed from year to year to keep it in order.

Neither is the saving of money by denying one's self or one's fam-

JUDGE CLANCY

Of Hornellsville, N. Y., Hands Down An Important Decision.

In the case of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy against Blood and Liver trouble, Judge James H. Clancy of Hornellsville, N. Y., and one of the most prominent members of the bar in that historic town, decided recently that as against Blood and Liver trouble, Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was worthy of the highest praise. He says: "I have used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and strongly recommend it for its good effect in my case for liver trouble and blood disorder. It built me right up and I improved greatly in health."

Geo. H. Tift of 878 River street, Troy, N. Y., suffered from liver trouble and his blood was all out of order and after using "Favorite Remedy," has this to say:

"For any one suffering from that run down or tired out feeling, caused by blood or liver trouble, Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine you can buy. I have used it and I know."

The sure cure for disease of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia and chronic constipation, is Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. It has cured in many cases where all else has failed.

It matters not how sick you are, how long you have suffered, or how many physicians have failed to help you, Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy will cure you if a cure is possible.

Many of the things that are necessary to physical well-being, and without which the average tone of health and comfort is lowered, an economy. Take it, for instance, in the matter of domestic service. A man might save a few dollars a week by dismissing the servant girl. His wife, by early rising and longer hours, might be able to struggle through the family work. But most considerate husbands will reason that what they save in dollars their wives lose in health and buoyance of spirits and the opportunity of leisure, and that it is no economy to throw upon the shoulders of a wife additional work and care, so long as it can possibly be avoided.

Nor is it necessarily economy to do without the means of intellectual and moral cultivation. It is no economy to give up church attendance, to save the pew rent, to stop the supply of wholesome family reading, or to withhold one's hand from helping those who are less fortunate than ourselves. Money spent for these things ministers to the higher life within us, and it never will be economical to starve that life.

What, then, is the true sphere of economy? Is it not in those useless things which minister simply to pride and display or that please the senses without contributing to the well-being of the whole man? It is far better for a woman to be out of the fashion, if her garments are tidy and wearable, than to have a new dress with the latest style of leg-o-mutton sleeves, and be obliged, because she has it, to dismiss her servant girl and to have her nerves and health and temper worn by the too severe strain of household drudgery. It is far better for a man to deny himself the small luxuries, upon which men are tempted to spend much, than to curtail the intellectual and moral resources of his household by cutting off books and papers and church attendance.

The Institution of Homes.

The hope of America is the homes of America.

Marriage is the legitimate basis of a genuine home.

Human nature is very prevalent among women, and especially among maids of all work.

Profoundly to be commiserated is that child who looks back upon his home as upon a prison house; upon his youth as a season of hardship; upon his parents as tyrants.

J. G. Holland.

Picked Up.
Rub together one tablespoonful of butter and three of flour. Roll this into the upper crust of pies. It will render the crust flaky and tender.

After buttering the tins for layer cake, give them a good sprinkling of flour. This will prevent the cake from sticking to the tins, and a little less flour will be required in the making of the cake.

In making custards and custard pies, heat the milk to the scalding point, before adding it to the beaten eggs and sugar; bake at once in a hot oven. The time required for baking them will thus be reduced one-half.

Instead of putting food into the oven to keep hot for late comers, try covering it closely with a tin, and setting it over a basin of hot water. This plan will keep the food hot, and at the same time prevent it from drying.

Sheets, pillowcases, tableclothes and napkins should not be hemmed until they have first been shrunk; but before the shrinking process, each one should be made into its proper length. If this is done, they will always fold evenly when ironed, which is not the case if made up without shrinking, or if shrunk in the piece, and then made into proper lengths. Sheets and pillowcases should be torn by a thread; tableclothes and napkins should be cut by a thread.

A Few Pies.

BANANA PIE. One pint of milk, three eggs well beaten, half cupful of sugar, and two bananas mashed fine and put through a colander. Mix well and bake in one crust. Make a meringue of the white of one egg and two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, flavoring as desired, and pour over the pie when done, returning to oven to brown.

COCONUT PIE. One pint scalded milk, one-half cup sugar, yolks of two eggs and a dessert spoonful of cornstarch, dissolved in milk. Beat altogether, cook in boiling milk, and add one cupful of coconut which has been soaked in milk over night. Bake with lower crust and meringue if liked.

ORANGE PIE. Beat together the yolks of four eggs and eight tablespoonfuls sugar; grate the skin of two oranges and add together with the juice and two-thirds cupful of milk. Bake half an hour in one crust, and finish with a meringue.

DATE PIE. One pound dates soaked over night steved and pressed through a colander. To this add one quart of milk, three eggs beaten, and a little salt and nutmeg. Bake with under crust.

MOLASSES PIE. Four eggs, one cupful brown sugar, half a nutmeg, grated, two tablespoonfuls butter, juice of one lemon and one cupful of molasses. Mix smoothly; bake in undercrust.

LEMON PIE. Two tablespoonfuls flour, two-thirds cupful water, one cupful sugar, yolks of two eggs. Mix and add grated rind and juice of one lemon. Bake with meringue.

TRANSPARENT PIE. Yolks of two eggs, one-half cupful butter, two-thirds cupful sugar, one tablespoonful flour, with flavoring. No upper crust.

Hon. George A. Tuttle, for twenty-five years a leading merchant of Bath, died Friday, at the age of 55 years.

About 14,000,000 feet is the total of the lumber cut on the Machias river during the past winter.

Melvin Page, a workman at a Phillips camp, was drowned Saturday while crossing Beaver pond in a canoe.

Nine cars of the east bound freight were thrown from the rail about half a mile west of South Gardiner depot, Thursday.

B. C. Thomas of West Leeds has had a valuable yearling colt killed by catching its foot in the head-stall and choking to death.

Dr. Ervin L. Soule, a promising South Portland young man, was drowned on the river at Stroud-water Tuesday of last week.

The grand jury failed to indict
Charles Wilson of Cundy's Harbor, suspected of the murder of his wife, and he was released Tuesday.

At Kennebago Sunday morning,
May 11, the mercury was two degrees below zero, and all crops which had broken ground were frozen.

Last Thursday was a hot day for Rockland hotels. Raids were made on the Thorndike, St. Nichols, and Maine Central, and a liberal amount of the wet goods found and seized at each place.

Portland was visited by a destructive fire Tuesday of last week.
The fire started in the city stable at the foot of Hanover street, it is supposed from a locomotive spark, and blazed up so rapidly that at one time over 30 buildings were in flames. The main loss, however, was confined to the stable, which is covered by an insurance of $5000.

A six-state Democratic league was organized in Boston, Friday night, at the home of Hon. Chas.
S. Hamlin. Among those present were George E. Hughes and John Scott, Bath, Me.; True L. Norris, Portsmouth, N. H.; Henry E. Hollis, Concord, N. H.; William S.
McNary, Boston; Homer S. Cummings, Stamford, Conn.; Charles F. Thayer, Norwich, Conn.; Nathan C. Jameson, Antrim, N. H.; Col. A. C. Drinkwater, Braintree,
Mass.; Prescott F. Hall, Brookline, Mass., and Mayor Fitzgerald, Pawtucket, R. I.

A Lewiston man says that Lewiston liquor sellers are paying as big a license as those of any city in the United States. At a public meeting in Auburn, Charles For-bury, regarded as a trustworthy citizen of Lewiston, said that he knew of a wholesale dealer in Lewiston who recently was paying certain officials $150 a month for the privilege of selling unmolested.
The party who was the power in the case demanded $100 more but the dealer refused and a few days after a carload of his liquor was seized, costing him $700 to $800.

One of the principal places of attraction for the working people of Eastport this week has been the Sea street sardine factory of the Sea Coast Packing company, where a large crew has been engaged since the opening of the season Monday, but since that time only a small quantity of herring have been caught in the neighboring weirs. Only five hogheads arrived Monday, 17 came in Tuesday and on Wednesday there were only three hogheads which was only an hour's work for the hands.
Out of this small lot Wednesday very few of the cutters managed to cut more than a box of fish for which they received a ticket valued at five cents.

Capt. Hobson, the hero of the Merrimac, came to Bath last Friday in the interest of the Kindergarten, and delivered a lecture at the Alameda in the evening to a large and enthusiastic audience.

Edward H. Robinson, for several seasons Phillips Exeter's base ball coach and also a foot ball coach at Brown University, has been engaged to coach the University of Maine's foot ball eleven next fall.

Geo. Bohanan of Alexander 81 years old, last week walked from his home to Calais, 17 miles away, to make some purchases and back again, a tramp of 34 miles which would have winded some younger men.

Hon. William W. Thomas of Portland, United States minister to Sweden and Norway has arrived home on a short leave of absence. He has been in the diplomatic service 40 years and has filled his present office three terms.

George Grover of Kingman aged 22 years, was drowned while going down the Mattawamkeag river, by the capsizing of a canoe containing himself, Elijah Fortier and Mitchell Robichaud. Fortier and Robichaud succeeded in swimming ashore.

The Congregational parsonage at Scotland, a part of York, was burned recently with the house and stable of Mrs. Abbie York adjoining. The fire was set by a young son of Rev. J. R. Wilson, the occupant of the parsonage, who touched a lighted match to the hay mow "just to see it burn."

William Walker of Portland, was drowned at Limington Falls, Tuesday of last week. Mr. Walker was employed by the Deering Lumber Co. and was engaged in his duties when he slipped from the logs and was unable to save himself. He was about 25 years of age and unmarried.

A Maine boy has already put in an application for one of the Cecil Rhodes scholarships at Oxford.
His name is H. Bernard Carpenter, now living in New York, but a native of Maine, where his father, who bore the same name, was a well-known clergyman. Young Carpenter is now in Trinity College.

No matter what happens for good or ill in any part of the world Maine always shares in the case as it may be. In the list of shipping destroyed at St. Pierre by the late eruption of Mount Pelee, appears the names of two Maine built vessels, the schooner, Annie E. J.
Morse, 651 tons, and the barkentine L. W. Norton.

Complications have arisen that will make it impossible for the Milbridge & Cherryfield electric road, in which local capital is interested, to commence work in June as was at first intended. Offers to finance the road have been made, but an old trouble has arisen among the townspeople along the proposed route.

An effort to have the smoke inconvenience at Rockport abated is to be made. C. Fred Knight, a leading citizen of the town, is to bring two suits for damages—one against each of the lime corporations—in the sums of $5,000 and $3,000. A movement is also on foot to ask for an injunction restraining the lime companies from burning soft coal.

The farmers in Franklin county have never seen better times since the war prices of the 60's than they have been favored with the past year. Crops have been generally good and prices, especially for apples and live stock, have been high. Register of Deeds, Coburn says that he and his assistants are recording a large number of discharges of mortgage as a consequence.

Mr. L. B. Merrill of Paris, has a very fine gem cut from a Mt. Mica tourmaline. It is very large—about three-fourths of an inch in diameter and weighed 41 carats.
The color is something remarkable, the top being light green and and base red. The stone is cut deep, having 75 facets, and the red at the collet permeates the whole stone, giving it a brilliant salmon tint.

Teachers' Association.

Notwithstanding the fact that Friday and Saturday of last week were "Teachers' Convention Days," both the 16th and 17th were unusually pleasant, sunshiny days.
The Convention was called to order
Friday morning at 11 o'clock by Pres. F. E. Hanscom; first on the program was the singing of America by the audience, Invocation by Rev. Charles Gleason; then followed the Address of Welcome given by Supt. H. H. Hastings of Bethel, responded to by Supt. Payson Smith of Rumford Falls.

The business of the morning session was laid over until the 2 p. m. session, the meeting was adjourned and nearly all present partook of the exceptionally fine dinner prepared by the ladies of the W. R. C. and served in Garland chapel.

The afternoon session was called to order promptly at 2 o'clock and after the reading of the records and the appointing of the several committees, Supt. Payson Smith gave an exceedingly interesting talk on the "School Improvement League;"
Miss Agnes E. Sanborn of Norway followed with a paper on "Geography in the Grammar Grades," discussion by Prin. Rollins, Norway, Prin. Cary, Rumford, and Mr.
H. H. Bryant. For convenience, two of the Saturday papers were here introduced in place of those arranged on the program, "Are College Requirements in Mathematics too Difficult for Our High Schools?" Discussion opened by Albert M. Rollins, Norway; Mr.
Whitman who was to have been one in the discussion was not present.

Miss Hattie M. Leach of South
Paris gave a very instructive paper on "Busy Work for Primary Scholars."

Meeting adjourned until 8:45, Saturday morning. The evening session consisted of a lecture, "The Endowment of a Teacher," by Pres. C. L. White of Colby College.
The Saturday morning session opened with music by the G. A. students, then followed reports of committees. The "Question Box" was here introduced by Pres. Hanscom; this was one of the most instructive features of the Convention.

"The Ideal Teacher from the Parents' Point of View," was very pleasingly and interestingly discussed by Mrs. J. G. Gehring and Rev. F. E. Barton; Pres. White, also kindly gave us many helpful suggestions along this line.

While waiting for Miss Boody who came from Lewiston on the morning train, Mrs. Vandenberghoven graciously consented to give one of her recitations. The last on the program was "Drawing in its Application to Nature Study," by Jennie E. Boody, Lewiston.

About 150 teachers were present and the whole affair was voted an exceptionally interesting and instructive Convention.

The officers chosen for the coming year are:

Pres.—F. E. Hanscom.
Vice Pres.—C. W. Cary, Rumford Falls.

Sec and Treas.—Jane H. Gibson.
It was voted to hold the next meeting in Norway, sometime in September.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Convention.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, we the teachers of Oxford Co., in Convention assembled at Bethel, May 16 and 17, 1902, desire to express our thanks to all who have labored to make the aforeaid Convention a success:

Resolved: That to the citizens of Bethel who have so generously opened their homes to us, we tender our heartfelt thank.

Resolved: That the unceasing zeal of the officers of the Convention demand a vote of thanks which we hereby tender.

Resolved: That to Pres. White of Colby College and the other speakers who with helpful remarks and instructive papers have made the convention a success, we express our sincere gratitude.

Resolved: That we extend our thanks to the officials of the Grand Trunk Ry. for their generous reduction of rates.

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of the convention and that copies be sent to the papers of the county for publication.

A GOOD BICYCLE

Made by a reliable company, may cost a little more to buy than a cheap job lot wheel offered by the mail-order houses at $11.98 or some such price, but there is a great difference in the running of the two machines, and a good wheel will cost very little for repairs. If you want a cheap wheel, don't come to me. If you want a good wheel at low price, will be glad to show you my line, at from $17.00 to $50.00.

NORTH ALBANY.

Friday, the 16th, the largest forest fire that has occurred in this section for years, started in the Paris Manufacturing Company's yard of hard wood logs—about twenty thousand—near the site of their mill which was burned last March. It proceeded in a south-westerly direction to the camps, four in number, one of which contained the Company's tools and camp supplies. These were burned, and the fire continued on up the side of the mountain. Saturday, a crew of about fifty men began to fight the fire. They worked all day Saturday and Sunday, and were in their places, Monday, to guard against another outbreak. The fire has run over a large acreage, getting into the old spruce and pine tops where A. S. Bean and Geo. Leighton have cut timber. The extent of the damage is not known, but it is probably slight to the standing hard wood timber, if cut soon.

Mr. W. D. Foster, Mrs. Pingree's father, spent Sunday with her.

Eustace Bennett and wife visited at their old home, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce, Wesley Wheeler, and Fred Wheeler, were in this section, Sunday.

Mrs. Eliza Smith of Ridgelyville, died Tuesday of pneumonia, and was buried Thursday at East Rumford.

A kettle of burning fat started a slight fire on Thursday near the noon hour. It was in the workroom of the C. E. Howe confectionery store that Mr. Welch was at work over a kettle of hot fat which accidentally caught ablaze and its quenching became a fierce proposition to Mr. Welch at once. When the flames had mounted to the ceiling and gone beyond the control of those who were nearest at hand an alarm was sounded for the hose company. The flames ate through the Howe ceiling and into the kitchen at Hotel Rumford before they were extinguished. The damage however, was slight, and was covered by insurance. Beyond slight burns about the face and hands, Mr. Welch was uninjured.

The Spring Medicine

is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

In thousands and thousands of homes—in cities, towns and villages—three doses a day of this great medicine are now being taken by every member of the family.

In some homes, even the visitor is given a teaspoonful with every meal.

Why such wide and general use? Because Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved itself by its wonderful effects in cleansing the system of all humors, overcoming that tired feeling, creating appetite, clearing the complexion, giving strength and animation, the best of all Spring medicines, so that it is par excellence the Spring Medicine.

Take it. "Hood's Sarsaparilla is a grand blood purifier and health restorer. My husband and I take it through the spring months and find it just what it is represented to be." Mrs. D. M. CHANDLER, Burnham, Maine.

Accept no substitute for Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Keep the Balance Up.

It has been truthfully said that any disturbance of the even balance of health causes serious trouble. Nobody can be too careful to keep this balance up. When people begin to lose appetite, or to get tired easily, the least imprudence brings on sickness, weakness, or debility. The system needs a tonic, craves it, and should not be denied it; and the best tonic of which we have any knowledge is Hood's Sarsaparilla. What this medicine has done in keeping healthy people healthy, in keeping up the even balance of health, gives it the same distinction as a preventive that it enjoys as a cure. Its early use has illustrated the wisdom of the old saying that a stitch in time saves nine. Take Hood's for appetite, strength, and endurance.

BERLIN, N. H.

We can but feel sad for our neighbor, Gorham. The Grand Trunk railroad shops were permanently closed Wednesday by orders from headquarters. The machinery is being loaded on the cars for removal to East Deering. It is estimated that 50 or more heads of families are thus thrown out of employment unless they go with the shops to their new location. Gorham has suffered a sad blow in the loss of its principal industry.

Letter to E. C. Park.
Bethel, Me.

Dear Sir: Most painters insist that lead and oil is good for three years; but they also insist that it needs going over again in three years. It is as much as to say it's a good job of paint that lasts three years.

Which is true; and a better that lasts six years. Lead and oil lasts six years. Lead and oil lasts three; Devoe lead and zinc lasts six.

When a paint begins to let in water, then is the time to repaint. It may be one year; it may be ten. Lead and oil lasts three, if well put on; lead and zinc lasts six if ground together and well put on. But painters are better acquainted with lead than with zinc. Zinc is newer.

Devoe lead and zinc is the proper mixture, ground in oil by machinery; same proportions as used by the U. S. Government.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & Co.

WIT AND WISDOM.

A little girl attending a party was asked by her mother how she enjoyed herself. "Oh," said she, "I am full of happiness, I couldn't be any happier unless I could grow."

"Neglected colds make fat graveyards," Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup helps men and women to a happy, vigorous old age.

Doctor (to Gilbert, aged 4)—"Put your tongue out, dear."

"Little Gilbert protruded the tip of his tongue."

Doctor—"No, no; put it right out."

The little fellow shook his head weakly, and the tears gathered in his eyes.

"I can't, Doctor, it's fastened on to me."

No Loss of Time.

I have sold Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for years, and would rather be out of coffee and sugar than it. I sold five bottles of it yesterday to threshers that could go no farther, and they are at work again this morning.—H. R. PHELPS, Plymouth, Oklahoma. As will be seen by the above the threshers were able to keep on with their work without losing a single day's time. You should keep a bottle of this Remedy in your home.

Athletes

and lovers of sport praise and use Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. Golf players value it for strengthening, toning, invigorating the muscles and the cure of sprains, stiffness and soreness. It is a preventive of "golf arm." It is the first thing needed in all the accidents athletes are accustomed to. After a bicycle ride or any exercise, briskly rubbing the muscles with JOHNSON'S Anodyne Liniment will keep the muscles firm, the joints supple and the skin healthy.

Johnson's Anodyne LINIMENT

has an unequalled record of nearly a Century of Cures. It should be kept on hand for prompt treatment of colds, croup, diphtheria, cholera morbus, bites, bruises, burns, stings, chafing, chilblains, colds, coughs, croup, catarrh, bronchitis, la grippe, lameness, muscle soreness, and pain and inflammation in any part of the body. In two size bottles, 25 cents and 50 cents. The larger size is more economical, holding three times of the smaller.

BLACK ROCK.

I followed in fear. As we came near the main path I heard the sound of feet, and I tried to stop her, but she, too, had heard and knew.

"Oh, let me go!" she said piteously. "You need not fear."

"And I had not the heart to stop her. In a little opening among the pines we met the bearers. When the men saw her, they laid their burden gently down upon the carpet of yellow pine needles, and then, for they had the hearts of true men in them, they went away into the bushes and left her alone with the dead. She went swiftly to his side, making no cry; but, kneeling beside him, she stroked his face and hands and touched his curls with her fingers, murmuring all the time soft words of love.

"Oh, my darling, my bonny, bonny darling, speak to me! Will you not speak to me just one little word? Oh, my love, my love, my heart's love! Listen, my darling!"

"And she put her lips to his ear, whispering, and then the awful stillness. Suddenly she lifted her head and scanned his face and then, glancing round with a wild surprise in her eyes, she cried:

"He will not speak to me! Oh, he will not speak to me!"

"I signed to the men, and as they came forward I went to her and took her hands.

"Oh," she said, with a wall in her voice, "he will not speak to me!"

"The men were sobbing aloud. She looked at them with wide open eyes of wonder.

"Why are they weeping? Will he never speak to me again? Tell me," she insisted gently.

"The words were running through my head.

"There's a land that is fairer than day, and I said them over to her, holding her hands firmly in mine. She gazed at me as if in a dream, and the light slowly faded from her eyes as she said, tearing her hands from mine and waving them toward the mountains and the woods:

"But never more here! Never more here!"

"I believe in heaven and the other life, but I confess that for a moment it all seemed shadowy beside the reality of this warm, bright world, full of life and love. She was very ill for two nights, and when the coffin was closed a new baby lay in the father's arms.

"She slowly came back to life, but there were no more songs. The miners still came about her shop and talk to her baby and bring her their sorrows and troubles; but, though she is always gentle, almost tender, with them, no man ever says 'Sing.' And that is why I am glad she sang last week. It will be good for her and good for them."

"Why does she stay?" I asked.

"Mavor's people wanted her to go to them," he replied.

"They have money—she told me about it—but her heart is in the grave up there under the pines, and, besides, she hopes to do something for the miners, and she will not leave them."

I am afraid I snorted a little impatiently as I said: "Nonsense! Why, with her face and manner and voice she could be anything she liked in Edinburgh or in London."

"And why Edinburgh or London?" he asked coolly.

"Why?" I repeated a little hotly. "You think this is better?"

"Nazareth was good enough for the Lord of Glory," he answered, with a smile none too bright, but it drew my heart to him, and my heat was gone.

"How long will she stay?" I asked.

"Till her work is done," he replied.

"And when will that be?" I asked impatiently.

"When God chooses," he answered gravely. "And don't you ever think but that it is worth while. One value of work is not that crowds stare at it. Read history, man!"

He rose abruptly and began to walk about.

"And don't miss the whole meaning of the life that lies at the foundation of your religion. Yes," he added to himself, "the work is worth doing, worth even her doing."

I could not think so then, but the light of the after years proved him wiser than I. A man to see far must climb to some height, and I was too much upon the plain in those days to catch even a glimpse of distant sunlit uplands of triumphant achievement that lie beyond the valley of self sacrifice.

THE TOUCH DOES IT

Benson's Plasters are like your other friends—they hate to see you in pain or in weakness and are dog-tired hearing you complain about it. They want to cure you and send you along to your business—whole and happy. They can do it and will do it. Try them on. What for? Why for any cough or cold you may be troubled with, or any boring pain or ache, or worry with kidneys or liver. Possibly some old attack of muscular rheumatism renders an arm or a leg worth only half price just now. For anything that makes the machine work slow and stiff, with pain maybe in the motion of it, clasp Benson's Porous Plaster square on the bad spot. They are the get-out-to-morrow plasters—not the sort that go to sleep on your skin like a cat on a cushion. There is comfort and speedy relief in the touch of them. No other external remedy, no matter how made or how called, is worthy to live in the same street with Benson's Plasters. Pains and ailments melt away under them as a sheet of ice does under the Spring sun. You cannot forestall the weather but you can always forestall the effect of Benson's Plasters; it is as sure as the effect of a hot breakfast in a hungry man's stomach. But look out for substitutes. Get the genuine. All druggists, or we will, prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.

Care of Dairy Utensils.

It is often difficult to keep dairy utensils in the best possible condition in winter, because of lack of sunshine. On most farms vessels are washed and scalded and then put in the sunshine until wanted. Many winter days have no sunshine. Utensils should therefore be boiled thoroughly or subjected to live steam if this is obtainable. At any rate, give them a good scalding in boiling water and place them where they are exposed to outside air. Sunshine is the best possible disinfectant. Keep your dairy utensils in the sunshine as much as possible.

There seems to be some sporting blood in the makeup of the Great Northern paper company, which owns or controls nearly all of the town of Millinocket. Last year a fine base-ball field was built, in what a few years before might have been a moose yard. A thick growth was cut down, stumps pulled up and thousands of loads of earth hauled in, leveled and rolled down. Now Millinocket has a big field like an immense floor, without a blade of grass upon it, and, "skinned" from the catcher's fence to the extreme outfield. This year the Great Northern company will inclose the grounds and build a grandstand. A guaranty fund of $1500 has been raised and the old-time player and umpire Billy Long hired as manager. Mr. Long is at present engaged in getting a team together to represent the town in a league to be formed at once to include Caribou, Houlton, Oldtown and one or two other places.

Won't Follow Advice After Paying For it.

In a recent article a prominent physician says, "It is next to impossible for the physician to get his patients to carry out any prescribed course of hygiene or diet to the smallest extent; he has but one resort left, namely, the drug treatment." When medicines are used for chronic constipation, the most mild and gentle obtainable, such as Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets, should be employed. Their use is not followed by constipation as they leave the bowels in a natural and healthy condition.

BASE BALL.

South Paris came to Bethel Friday confident of victory and it looked very much that way till the seventh inning when Gould's sent fourteen men to bat and scored nine runs on hits, bases on balls and errors by the entire Paris infield. Paris could not close the gap and Gould's won the game, 10 to 9.

Gould's scored her other run in the first on two errors by Bearce, a stolen base and a sacrifice. Paris scored two in the first on errors by Merrill, Mills, Whitman and Tuell, a stolen base and a base on balls; in the fourth Bearce battled what should have been an easy out to right field but Brown was stunned while trying to field it by colliding with the goal post and three bases resulted and a passed ball and error by Dyer allowed two more runs. In the sixth a hit, stolen base and errors by Whitman and Dyer yielded another brace, and two more men crossed the plate in the sixth on a hit by pitched ball, two stolen bases and errors by Brown and Watson followed by Bonney's double. The last one came in the eighth on Purington's error and a stolen base followed by Wheeler's hit.

The return game was played at Paris Saturday forenoon and Paris won by a score of 5-2.

Gould's lost the game by costly errors combined with some of the most stupid base running ever seen. Paris made only five hits off Mills and these were scattered through as many different innings but the best of pitching could hardly have won against the crowd present and some of Umpire Curtis' decisions. Mr. Curtis probably gave his decisions as he saw them but it was very evident to all the spectators where his interest was. Also when an umpire so far forgets his dignity as chief official of a game as to use oaths and profanity towards members of both teams it is time for someone else to take charge of games.

Mr. Wiley was very fair in his decisions and this was very refreshing when compared with some other things seen during the game. For Paris Parlin pitched good ball and Bearce hit well, while Carter and Whitman's batting and Mills' pitching were the redeeming features of Gould's work.

The decisive game will be played, probably at Oxford, on May 30, and will be well worth seeing, as there will be no partisan crowd and an umpire who knows his business.

NURSERY NOTES.

A child should never be taught that he is bad.

The sunniest and best room in the house is not too good for the child.

A thin flannel bandage around a baby's abdomen will often prevent cholera infantum.

Extract of quassia, which is bitter, rubbed on the finger tips, will prevent a child biting its nails.

The baby should be encouraged to stretch its limbs and crawl about, but not to walk too soon, in order to strengthen it and promote circulation.

If a child is seen to have a little cold, rub the chest with sweet oil morning and evening. Warm the hand and apply about a teaspoonful of the oil, rubbing for five minutes.

The mother should regard any discharge from the child's ear as a danger signal. Consult a doctor at once, as the discharge sometimes arises from an abscess which may affect the brain.

No sweeping should be done while the children are in the room. If, however, because of sickness, this is necessary, dust the furniture and floor with a moist cloth and use a carpet sweeper instead of a broom.

An infant should not be given any food containing starch until it cuts its teeth. Starchy foods include corn, flour, tapioca, sago, rice, potatoes, etc. An infant is not old enough to digest any of these until its teeth are cut.

Is It Worth While After All?

"Brain fever at twelve, and we are left alone."

"We pushed her, and God knows how we have suffered for our mistake."

"She graduated, but she never recovered, and in two years we had no daughter."

"I thought more of a diploma than I did of my child. Now I have only the diploma."

"Everything that love and skill could suggest was done, but our eyes had been opened too late."

"Promotion! Promotion! was our cry. Then our little girl was promoted, but not in the way we hoped."

"We placed an education above health, and the life of a promising boy of eighteen is the price we paid for our mistake."

"It was music and painting added to a tired brain. Now our house is still a monument to our thoughtlessness."

"What would not my husband and I give of our means today if we could undo the past and bring our only child back! That is the hardest part to bear—the feeling of what we might have done. From the house-tops would we cry out to parents to take care!"—Ladies' Home Journal.
